Methods and limitations

1. One hardened-off plantlet from each virus-eliminated variety will be provided to the client unless extra plants are requested at additional costs (see Fees and payment).
2. Due to the limit of detection, very low virus titres in treated plantlets may not be detected. It is therefore important that plants returned to clients are retested after two dormancies to confirm their virus-free status. The virus elimination process is not complete until after this final test. If a positive test is returned at this stage, for viruses present in the initial sample, then virus elimination will need to be repeated (at no additional cost). Tissue culture material will be maintained until this final virus test.
3. Grapevine rupestris stem pitting-associated virus (GRSPaV) is present in almost all grape varieties. We do not guarantee the removal of this virus. Once the plants are established in the field, GRSPaV is detectable by PCR in symptomless plants.
4. Since mealybugs and scale insects are the vectors of most grapevine viruses, these may re-infect young vines in the vineyard. Annual testing of mother blocks is recommended.
5. No guarantee is made of elimination of viruses outside of the complete virus screen list (see Grapevine virus testing fact sheet). All virus-eliminated material is tested using the standard screens of the AWRI virus testing service. If a virus outside of these screens is of concern, please contact the AWRI for further information and options.
